ARBUCKLE'S

Artista Coffee

COSTS MORE AND IS WORTH MORE THAN OTHER BRANDS OF COFFEE.

WHY?

1st. It is made from green coffee of higher grade and better origin than any other coffee. It is an actual cost to us of three-eighths of a cent per pound.

2d. Its entire strength and aroma are retained by our process of glazing coffee.

3d. The ingredients used in glazing are for chocolate, eggs and pure cream. The glazing is done in a laboratory on each package of coffee bearing our name.

4th. The glazing, composed of eggs and sugar, not only retains the entire strength and aroma of the coffee but gives it a richness of flavor unknown to other coffees; besides it saves the expense of eggs used in setting unglazed coffee.

BEWARE OF BUYING LOW-GRADE COFFEE. Many persons are purchasing to be made of Mocha, Java and Rio—this being a cheap device, employed by the manufacturers, to deceive unwary consumers.

COOKING NOTES.

Straw berries.

STRAW BERRIES.—PICKED AND WASHED, are not too ripe, and to every pint of fruit add three-quarters of a pound of fine white sugar. Put the berries on a dish and add a little more than one-third of a pound of cream. Then shake the berries over with cream. When berries are ready to use, use one pint of cream to every quart of berries. Instead of using water, use one pint of currant juice. Summer the berries in all well-jarred, then put into jars or cans.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE.—For one shortcake, two or three hours before wanted, crush a large quantity of strawberries with two cups of sugar. For the crust, sift with two cups of flour one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder. Chop into the flour one-third cup of butter and mix with the sugar. Chop by hand the meal. Add one cup of sweet milk, and more flour if necessary. Mix as tight as possible, and have the dough as soft as can be put in tin, and butter generously to prevent layers sticking. Cover with this other half and bake carefully. Lift off the upper layer and place it on a plate. Sprinkle the top with sugar and spread over it one-half of the berries. Butter the remaining layer like the first, put on top, and spread over it the remaining layer. Bake before serving; pour over the whole a little cream, and serve with a little cream.

STRAWBERRY MARSHMALLOW OR JELLY.—Put six pounds of ripe red strawberries in a fine white sieve; boil for five minutes, and stir it over a sharp fire until the surface is covered with clear bubbles; try a little upon a plate; if it sets, fill the jars with the top of the berries, cover each jar with a thin brandy; cover each jar tightly, and keep in a cool and dry place until it is wanted.
