What Shall We Drink?

One of the most important subjects for our consideration is the nature of the drinks that we use. There are so many kinds now in the market that their number is legion. Many of these are injurious to the system, and would not bear the critical test of analysis. Care should be taken to select only such drinks as will properly do their office. We drink to quench the thirst, and if at the same time we can build up the system, restore its flagging energies and revive the drooping spirit by the use of any particular kind of drink, this is the one that we should select. Properties which we guarantee to do all this work are found in Hires' Improved Root Beer, a drink which has been on the market now for some years, and one which has gradually won its way into popular favor until its fame has extended to the remotest parts of the American Continent. This popular drink is a most welcome visitor in thousands of homes, and myriads of people testify to its many virtues. Unsolicited testimonials are continually pouring in, setting forth the many benefits derived from its use.

It is unquestionably one of the best blood purifiers in the world, and for kidney disease it has no equal. Why take poisonous and disagreeable drugs when in this delicious drink you have the problem of medicine solved by its imparting strength and pure blood, which soon gives a person a clear and healthy complexion.

It is recommended and prescribed by some of our best physicians.

BEWARE of all imitations.

BEWARE! Do not confound this with other Root Beer preparations, as it is entirely unlike anything else of the kind.

A package makes five gallons of a most delicious, sparkling, temperance drink.
